

U. S. Board Specifies $2.25 Hourly Rate on Lackawack Iron Job

Milk Prices Stay Until Order Comes

No increase in the price of milk, butter or cheese is permitted until such change is authorized by the New York Regional Office of the O.P.A., it was announced this morning by the Kingston War Price and Rationing Board.

The local board said it had received word to that effect from the Albany office of the O.P.A.

Prices will remain the same as of May 11, said the local board, until authorization to raise prices is permitted by the regional office in New York.

Patterson Declares Army Criticism Is Postwar in Nature

Everything Army Did Gets Censure, He Says, and Tells Pointers They Will Outlive It

West Point, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Secretary of War Patterson today declared the criticism being heaped on the army for its conduct of World War II, but attributed it to another one of the nation's "chronic postwar periods of censure."

The War Department chief made his comments in addressing the graduating class of the United States Military Academy, and he told its members to be proud of the fact that the army had been a part in the leadership of the American army.

That army, he reminded them, was in Africa, Europe and in the Pacific, yet he noted "sharp criticism of everything the army did in waging war is the fashion of the day."

From individuals who never served and had no notion of serving.

"This form of sport will pass. But unbalanced judgments will be formed unless accounts are told of the fact that the prime purpose of the armed forces is to win without excessive loss of life.

"In that purpose the army won a success without precedent in our history, and this is proof enough of the character of the military leadership. It could not have succeeded if there had been anything radically wrong with our leadership, and I mean the leadership supplied by those in uniform."

This leadership took account of the dignity and decency of the individual, and he said, "Our army goes far beyond the practices of any other army in this regard, and this will be conceded by the most severe ex-G.I. critic who saw anything of foreign armies."

Acknowledges Errors

He said mistakes had been made by leadership and that there is room for improvement in relationships between commissioned and non-commissioned personnel.

"The Doellittle board report is a thoughtful discussion of inadequacies and of remedies. The

Byrne-Ross Knit Mills Organized

Kingston Mills, and Baltz Workers Are Expected to Join Union

Climaxing a week's organizational campaign among the workers of the Byrne-Ross Knitting Mills in the Millard building on Prince street, the management has recognized the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, C.I.O., as bargaining agents for the employees of the plant, it was announced at the offices of the union today.

The workers were organized by a committee working inside the plant, and a meeting of all who have signed up will be held this afternoon in the union's office in the Millard building for the purpose of electing a shop committee, and a committee to negotiate a contract with the management.

Simultaneously with the announcement of Byrne-Ross contract recognizing the union, a drive will be made to organize the workers of the Kingston Knitting Mills, where a number of the workers have already signed union cards.

Mr. Mabel Fisher, business agent of the local union, said that the work of organizing the employees of the C. A. Baltz & Sons, cotton garment factory, was under way, and it was expected that a sufficient number of signers would be obtained that would make possible for the union to approach management and ask for recognition.

Doyle Gets Letter Telling of Wage Scale; Parley Planned

The controversy over iron workers' wages, an impediment to starting work on the Lackawack dam project for several months, appears settled by a ruling of the National Wage Adjustment Board.

In a communication to Samuel M. Doyle, 187 Henry street, business representative and financial secretary of the Iron Workers Local, 417, American Federation of Labor, the wage scale has been established at $2.25 an hour.

Mr. Doyle made the new wage scale public today, after receiving the notification from Washington.

Queried about how the scale would affect the Lackawack project, the business agent of Local 417 said he had a conference scheduled with the S. A. Healey Co. of Chicago at the firm's White Plains office this week.

This company bid in the job for a figure that runs over 14 million dollars, approximately eight million of which will be paid out in wages to the various craftsmen employed.

Labor Cost Increase $800,000

It is estimated that the increase in wages will boost labor's share of the money to more than $800,000 over the original amount figured by the contractor.

The wage scale for iron workers, Mr. Doyle told a reporter, applies not only to the Lackawack job, but to other construction projects in Ulster and six counties in this area—Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan and part of Delaware.

The controversy over iron workers' wages goes back to April 9, 1946. Their scale then was $2 an hour. They asked for $2.30, but the Wage Adjustment Board allowed $2.10.

36 Contractors Agree

Mr. Doyle made a survey of 36 contractors in the Lackawack area, and he said they agreed in writing to a $2.25 an hour scale. He presented their statements to the board with an appeal for reconsideration.

Acting on the appeal, the board sanctioned the $2.25 an hour scale, making it retroactive to April 1.

The second decision of May 22 means that iron workers in the seven-county area are to receive the differential of 25 cents an hour as back wages from April 1.

In announcing the decision of the wage board, Robert C. Moore, executive secretary, informed Mr. Doyle as follows:

This action has been taken after reconsideration of the decision dated April 9, 1946 and amends said decision with respect to rate."

One of Highest in Nation

The new wage scale for this area is one of the highest in the country, and puts local iron workers in a bracket with the majority of their fellow craftsmen, of which there are 600,000 in the International Association of Bridge Structure and Ornamental Iron Workers.

Mr. Doyle has been affiliated with this organization since 1921. Besides serving as business representative and financial secretary of Local 417 for five years, he is president of the Ulster County Building Trades Union.

Pauley Says Russians Took Little Machinery

Seoul, June 4 (AP)—U. S. reparations Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley returned today from a restricted tour of North Korea to report that he found little evidence that any machinery had been taken out of the Russian-occupied zone.

"I don't think the United States should waive claim to reparations until we know definitely the operative condition and ownership of all industry in North Korea," he said.

A Pauley said Col. Gen. I. M. Chistiakov, commander of Soviet forces in North Korea had denied that the Russians had removed any factory or plant equipment and said his Soviet policy had been to ship to Siberia.

The American said that "only on two or three occasions did we view anything that would indicate removals had taken place."

Fleming Is 'Very Weak'

Agreement Is Reached

Prague, June 4 (AP)—The government announced today it had reached an agreement with the Soviet Union whereby 65,000 German civilians will be transferred from Czechoslovakia to the Russian-occupied zone in Germany by November.

Truman Has Tough Job In Selection

President Has Accepted Stettinius' Bid to Quit as U. S. Delegate to U.N.

Johnson to Act

Stettinius' Aide Will Take Over Duties Temporarily

Washington, June 4 (AP)—President Truman today faced the exacting task of finding a new United States representative to the United Nations.

He once described the post as one of the highest and most important within the gift of the nation, and it was with obvious reluctance that he accepted the resignation of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., late yesterday.

If the President and Secretary of State Byrnes had any successor to Stettinius in mind last night, some of their top aides did not know it. In fact, there were indications the two men had not even started surveying possible candidates.

One of these was a premature announcement by Byrnes through a press officer that Stettinius would continue for the time being. The State Department later corrected itself, saying the resignation would take effect immediately.

Herschel Johnson, a career diplomat who has served as deputy to Stettinius, will fill the U. N. seat temporarily.

Another indication that no replacement for Stettinius had been decided on was Mr. Truman's revelation that as late as yesterday morning he had hoped to persuade the white-haired, 45-year-old former secretary of state to withdraw his resignation.

Winant Mentioned

Much of the speculation about a successor centered about John G. Winant, former Republican governor of New Hampshire, who recently completed a six-year assignment as ambassador to Britain.

Winant now is U. S. representative on the U. N. Economic and Social Council.

Others mentioned are Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson and Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia and Belgium.

It would surprise many government officials, however, if Mr. Truman and Byrnes decided they could spare Acheson from his State Department post. And the appointment of Davies would be certain to arouse opposition in the Senate because of his frequent defense of Russian foreign policy and criticism of American tactics toward the Soviet Union.

Most government officials believe Stettinius resigned from the U. N. job because it made him something of a glorified "errand boy" for his successor, Byrnes. At the beginning of the Security Council sessions in New York, Stettinius had to step aside while Byrnes sat in on the discussions of the Russian-Iranian dispute.

In his letter of resignation, however, Stettinius told the President only that he had expected to leave government service after the war, and that he had completed the

Union Leaders Say They Will Boycott Hearings

New York, June 4 (AP)—Union leaders of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company's striking engineers and trainmen say they will boycott hearings before a three-man emergency board named by President Truman to investigate the wage dispute.

Shortly after the President announced formation of the board, William E. Skutt, H. M. chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, announced last night "I have no authority to appear before any board, and I don't expect to get any authority."

His position was seconded by Matthew O'Leary, the road's chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who declared: "I am not going to appear either."

The union leaders' refusal was described by Robert F. Cole, secretary of the National Mediation Board, as unprecedented in railroad labor history. He expressed hope that the national heads of the two unions would arrange for union representation when the board holds its first hearing here Thursday.

On the board are Dr. John A. Fitch of the New York School of Social Work, Russell Wolfe, Philadelphia attorney, and Arthur Whittemore, Boston lawyer.

Case Measure Foes Claim 100 Signers To Request Veto

Savage Says President Can't Make Up His Mind; Has to June 12

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Congressional foes of the Case labor disputes bill said today they have nearly 100 House signatures to a petition urging President Truman to veto the controversial measure.

We have been informed the President hasn't decided yet what action to take, so we want to let him know immediately of the backing he has before he makes up his mind," Rep. Savage (D-Wash.) told a reporter.

Mr. Truman has until midnight June 12 to act on the legislation, which would create a federal mediation board to help settle disputes, give it power to ban strikes for 60 days, and take away job rights of those refusing to work. The bill also would make unions subject to damage suits for violating contracts and impose other restrictions on their activities.

The petition movement is the latest strategy adopted by the House group in its efforts to prevent enactment of either the Case bill or the President's emergency strike control measure.

Members arranged a joint hearing yesterday at which A.F.L. and C.I.O. spokesmen asserted that organized labor would be destroyed if the President's proposal were enacted. Some 50 lawmakers turned out for the informal meeting.

The House is expected to act Thursday on Mr. Truman's bill. Originally the House passed it as he asked, giving him power to police essential services, union plants and draft workers to run them. The Senate deleted the draft authority, however, so the House now must vote again on which version it wants.

Those opposed to both the Case bill and the emergency measure acknowledge that they are in a minority. But they said the hope by concerted effort to keep all types of regulatory labor legislation off the books at this time.

Wheat Shortage Affects All Mills

Industry Will Do Only Partial Work This Month in U. S.

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The pre-harvest wheat shortage will force the nation's milling industry to bump along at only partial capacity all during June.

This situation prevails despite a government offer to lend mills wheat from foreign relief stocks until the new crop becomes available in July.

The loan decision was announced even as senators heard advice from the Millers National Federation yesterday that 98 per cent of all flour mills in the country would be forced to close by tonight.

To avoid any prolonged shutdown, the Agriculture Department said it will make wheat available both to relieve domestic bread shortages and to produce flour for export.

But officials said the total quantity of grain which the government will be able to lend will be far from sufficient to keep all mills at full capacity until the new crop is available.

Mills in areas where consumer supplies of bread and flour are short of the reduced famine emergency levels will be able to borrow only enough to bring their output for the month up to 50 per cent of their June quota. And this quota is only three-fourths of the amount of flour as they distributed monthly last year.

Mills borrowing wheat for domestic use will be required to give top priority in flour sales to hospitals, public and other institutions.

(The borrowed wheat must be replaced as soon as the new crop becomes available.)

Republican Group Builds Up Commanding Lead in Italy

Rome, June 4 (AP)—Forces favoring the establishment of a republic appeared to be building up a commanding lead today as Italian officials completed the tabulation of approximately one-quarter of the votes cast in this nation's two-day elections.

A semi-official tabulation of approximately 10 per cent of the 25,000,000 votes estimated to have been cast showed the republic leading the monarchy almost two to one.

In addition, results from 25 per cent of the ballots cast in the concurrent voting for a constituent assembly showed the middle-of-the-road Christian Democrats, headed by Premier Alcide De Gasperi, in first place with the Communists and Socialists battling it out for second.

Since all three of these parties, together with the Republicans, are committed to the establishment of a republic, election experts of the Ministry of the Interior said they

Russian Idea of Being Only Nation With Right Ideas Is Block, He Says

London, June 4 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the House of Commons today that permanent peace in Europe could be guaranteed "only if Russia enters freely into the European settlement."

But, he said, "all through Russian speeches and writings" runs the "idea that the Russian methods alone represent democracy and that certain other systems are either Fascist or crypto-Fascist."

"This is one of the greatest obstacles to peace," Bevin declared in a speech opening a full-dress debate on foreign affairs.

The debate will continue for two days.

The United States' new ambassador to Britain, W. Averell Harriman, sat in the gallery.

Bevin said he had always regarded as a tragedy the fact that Russia did not participate in the making of Europe's peace after the first world war.

"On the other hand, the United States fought in the last war, took part in the peace making and then withdrew into isolation," he remarked.

Bevin referred to his previous disclosure that he had offered to recommend extension of the 20-year Anglo-Russian friendship treaty to 50 years, and said:

"I regret that this was not taken more seriously at the time. But I am confident it will come. While I am foreign secretary, notwithstanding the rebuff, I shall still pursue it."

Remarks on Molotov

Referring to Soviet Foreign Minister H. M. Molotov's recent speech in which he asserted that a British-American bloc was opposing the Russians, Bevin declared:

"I rather resent Mr. Molotov's attitude that when you put up proposals that he does not agree to, he seems to imply that you are dictating. We are dictating to nobody, but we do ask that there shall be an examination of our point of view when we put it forward on Continued on Page Two

Kaplan's Purchase Samuels' Property On North Front St.

Furniture Company Plans To Move Its Sales to Site; Jacobson Will Move

The Kaplan Furniture Company located at 14-16 East Strand has purchased the building at North Front and Crown streets, where they will locate their display rooms as soon as extensive remodeling is completed.

The directors of the Kaplan Furniture Company Inc., are Mrs. Flora Kaplan and her two sons, Harry and Adrian.

When alterations are completed, the new home of the Kaplan Furniture Company will be one of the most elaborate in the city it was said. Nine rooms will be available for displays.

Present plans call for maintaining the downtown stores as warehouses.

The removal of the Kaplan Company from the downtown section follows closely that of the Canfield Supply Company located next door, which is removing to central Broadway.

For over a half century the Kaplan Furniture Company has been located in the downtown section of the city. The Kaplan Brothers have carried on the business established by their father, the late Louis Kaplan, 51 years ago. The Kaplan store has not only served residents of the downtown section but people from all parts of the city as well as from townships throughout the county.

The uptown building was purchased from Sidney and Rose Samuels, who formerly conducted a fruit store there.

Prior to occupancy by the Samuels, the store housed the furniture business of M. Kaplan, who conducted a business there for many years.

The Hal-Mar Manufacturing Company, of which George Margolis is proprietor, is now located in the Samuels building, where they have been operating for the past year and a half.

The Hal-Mar Company recently purchased the building at 73-75 Crown street and will remove there when vacated by the Kingston Used Furniture Company.

Jacobsons Will Move

The Max Jacobson clothing store also will remove from the downtown section to an uptown location. Some years ago Jacobson purchased the building at 39 John street, which is now occupied by the Barbizon Shop, Inc. It was announced today that Jacobson would remove from their present store at 32 Broadway to the John street building when vacated by the present occupants.

The Max Jacobson clothing store, like the Kaplan Furniture Company, has been located in the downtown section for over half a century, where they also served residents of the entire city and county folks. They have been noted for their fine brands of clothing.

The business, which is now conducted by Max Jacobson and his son, Isaac, was established by his father, Chas. Jacobson, who died in 1904. The store was removed from the Strand at Hasbrouck avenue, from where they moved to their present location.

Negotiators Turn From Work-Week Issue Temporarily, Run Into Deadlock

Ex-Navy Men Await Call to Duty if Strike Goes On

Washington, June 4 (AP)—A hint of new union concessions toward settlement of the threatened maritime strike on June 15 came today from President Joseph Curran of the C.I.O.'s National Maritime Union.

As the Navy started mobilizing to run the merchant fleet if necessary, Curran told reporters that a compromise 42-hour week proposal "is our latest but not our last offer."

He did not elaborate, but another spokesman for the union gave this follow-up explanation: "We're prepared to avert a strike, we don't want a strike. We're willing to compromise and sign a satisfactory agreement. The point is what is satisfactory."

Originally the union asked a 40-hour week at sea instead of the present 56 hours, demanding that each ship carry 10 relief workers. Employers said this would be an "insupportable burden" making it impossible for American ships to compete with foreign lines. The new offer cuts the relief crew to 8, but still leaves a wide gap between the union and employer positions.

Pushing for Settlement

Federal conciliators are pushing for settlement of the N.M.U.'s demands, hoping this would set a pattern for the six other unions wrapped up in the Committee for Maritime Unity (C.M.U.).

The conciliation conference took its first peek into the demands of the West coast seamen today behind closed doors, with no results immediately reported. Meanwhile the government took preparatory steps to run the nation's 3,100 merchant ships if the mid-June deadline goes by without settlement.

Naval stations were ordered to comb their personnel for men with experience in the merchant marine, and also to line up volunteers among discharged navy men.

With time slipping away, ship operators and C.I.O. Leaders Harry Bridges and Joe Curran were negotiating day and night at the Labor Department.

Last night's session did not wind up until 15 minutes after midnight. Then U.S. Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren told newsmen:

"That temporary deadlock forced the negotiators to turn away momentarily from the issue of a shorter work week for seamen of the C.I.O. National Maritime Union and take up instead one of many side issues—the number of electricians each ship should carry. The snag over hours developed after the union made two new offers and the Eastern ship operators one."

That the Pacific coast shipping industry comes into the negotiations today for the first time, with discussions starting between Pacific ship operators and the Marine Firemen's Union—an independent group.

The navy moved into the fast-developing picture last night, adding punch to President Truman's promise to keep the ships going even if he had to use the armed forces to do it.

Orders Are Sent Out

Two orders cracked out to naval stations from the office of the secretary of the navy: Commandants were instructed to recruit volunteers from among discharged navy men—volunteers who would stand by, to be called to active duty on merchant ships if needed. Two and a half million men have been released from the navy since last August.

Naval stations and fleet commanders were instructed to report within 24 hours how many men they now have who are experienced in "handling and stowing cargo."

No ex-navy man will be called to active duty just now—but volunteers will stand ready to be called if the strike of C.I.O. seamen and dock workers goes on.

One government official, who asked not to be identified, said a logical next step would be for the navy to halt the demobilization of all sailors who have experience that would be valuable in sailing merchant ships.

Principal negotiations so far have centered around the work-week of a man on shipboard. Seamen now work 56 hours a week at sea, stewards 63 hours. Both groups work 44 hours a week when in port.

One of the key demands of the committee for maritime unity, a

Lawyers Named To Defend Those Under Indictment

Counsel was assigned Monday afternoon to several defendants who, following indictment by the May grand jury, pleaded innocent of the crimes charged and asked that counsel be assigned. At the time of arraignment Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schrick, before whom the arraignments were made, transferred the cases to County court and directed counsel be assigned by Judge Cashin in County court.

Martin Combeau was assigned by Judge Cashin to E. J. Newkirk, Marlborough, charged with possession of a firearm without securing a license.

Raymond Mino was assigned to Herbert Williams, charged with having entered Kingston homes.

William Kelly was assigned to Elijah Quick, Sr., charged with illegal possession of firearms.

Joseph Avis was assigned to defend Albert Lewis of Kingston who faces charges of entering premises at Kingston and Sleightsburg.

James Plunkett was assigned to Thomas Stone, charged with carrying a pistol without the required license.

Bernard A. Culliton was assigned to defend Wallace Mattate, charged with burglarizing a gas station on St. James street last February.

Eleven cases were marked for trial on the call of the calendar and will be taken up for further action on June 10 at 2 o'clock when trial matters will be resumed.

Jurors were excused until June 10 at 2 o'clock but an extra panel of jurors drawn will appear at 11 o'clock on June 10. The Court recessed to chambers to take up youthful offender cases.

Accommodations Short

Syracuse, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Selection of Syracuse as the site for either the Republican or Democratic state conventions appeared unlikely today unless party leaders are able to muster additional hotel accommodations. The state Republican executive committee was reported last week to have decided in favor of either Syracuse or Buffalo with likely dates September 3-4. Onondaga County Democratic Chairman Charles J. Hogan reported that less than 500 hotel rooms would be available at convention time. He estimated that the conventions would draw more than 2,000 persons each.

Only 10 Battleships

London, June 4 (AP)—Great Britain has only 10 serviceable battleships, of which only five—the King George V, the Duke of York, Anson, Howe and Vanguard—are fit for full service in the fleet, according to the new edition of the authoritative "Jane's Fighting Ships." The Queen Elizabeth, Valiant, Nelson and Rodney are "too slow" and the Renown is too lightly armored for modern requirements, the 48th edition of the publication said.

rational and reasonable grounds." Bevin said Russian diplomats appeared to have "the idea that the security of Russia can only be maintained when every country in the world adopts the Soviet system."

"This is one of their greatest handicaps and a great obstacle to peace," he said.

"I can speak for the workers of Great Britain and the British commonwealth when I say we do not believe the Soviet system would represent the interest of the workers as this system of democratic parliament as ours."

A moment later, Bevin said: "There are many matters connected with the Soviet attitude towards the British commonwealth and the empire which at least show a sense of realism."

Hedke Is Nominated

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4 (AP)—Richard C. Hedke of Detroit was nominated today to be president of Rotary International, succeeding Thomas A. Warren of Wolverhampton, England. He was expected to be named by acclamation. He was educated in Cleveland, Ohio, and Trenton, Mich.

Stettinius, whose resignation was accepted yesterday by President Truman, said he had no plans and would leave within a few days to rest at his home in Rapidan, Va.

Indian Arrested Here On Intoxication Charge

Peter James Jack, 24, a full-blooded Indian from Seattle, Wash., was arrested last night by the police on a charge of public intoxication. Today in police court Judge Matthew V. Cahill imposed a fine of $5.

Jack, according to the police, had served as a private in the U. S. Army, receiving his discharge in February, 1944, and since then had been employed as a horse wrangler at Clinton Corners in Dutchess county.

Bad Fire at Flagstaff

Flagstaff, Ariz., June 4 (AP)—A raging, wind-fed fire spread across the Coconino forest southwest of here today and the U. S. Forest Service prepared to reinforce a crew of 100 firefighters with 500 more. By midnight last night 400 acres of virgin yellow pine had been burned over. The fire, which began at noon yesterday, was described by the Forest Service as the worst in the Flagstaff area since 1928.

Senate Will Try Again to Decide Issue of Service

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The Senate gingerly set itself today for a new try on deciding the future of the draft, but the only advance agreement was that those in the armed forces should get more money.

Senator Gurney (R-S.D.), floor leader for a proposed extension of Selective Service until May 15, 1947, told a reporter both House and Senate are "certain to approve a pay increase proposal."

Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.), Republican whip who wants to see majority of the Senate is agreed upon pay increases.

And Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), who wrote the stopgap extension under which Selective Service is operating until July 1, said the "only argument on pay is as to the amount."

Johnson added that he was "puzzled" why the Senate, after weeks of planning, suddenly put aside the politically-hot draft legislation in mid-afternoon yesterday under agreement to take it up again today.

"We would have finished the bill," he said. "There is no reason I know why it should not be finished."

Gurney, made a long speech in favor of continuing Selective Service until May 15 of next year, with draft of 18 and 19 year olds, now excluded from inductions by demerit of a house majority.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), noted the lack of peace treaties with Austria and Italy and observed that our armed forces in Europe had been cut to a "very dangerous minimum."

Senator Smith (R-N.J.) announced he favored the extension including induction of "teen" ages even though this would include his own 18-year-old grandson.

Only one Democrat, Maybank (S.C.) joined these three Republicans in support of the extension and Gurney surprised the Senate by suspending further action until today.

Wherry said he expected strong support for a substitute he is pressing jointly with Senator Revercomb (R-W.Va.). It would continue the Selective Service machinery of registration and classification, but all inductions would be suspended after July 1, while service pay would be upped to encourage voluntary enlistments.

Two Are Injured

Greenport, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Actor Victor Moore and his son, Robert Emmet Moore, 30, were injured today when the father's 38-foot cabin cruiser exploded at a Greenport dock. The elder Moore was treated and released at Eastern Long Island Hospital, Greenport, for superficial burns about the head, but the son was in a serious condition, suffering from extensive second degree burns.

School Lunches Signed

Washington, June 4 (AP)—President Truman signed the national school lunch act today with the comment that it provides the basis for strengthening the nation through better nutrition for our school children. He added in a statement that "despite our capacity to produce food we have often failed to distribute as well as we should."

Byrnes Will Leave

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes said today he expects to leave June 13 for assumption of the Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris on June 15. His party will include both Senators Connally (D-Tex.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 4 (AP)—Further profit cashing kept the Stock Market on the downgrade today, although pressure again was relatively light.

Accounts were trimmed in most cases because of bearish sentiment regarding the impact of widespread labor disputes on business and the belief that a sizable technical correction of the climb to 15-year average peaks was long overdue.

Attempts at recovery were made at the opening but these were timid and there was little follow-through. Rails, steels and motors then led an extension of the retreat, and near the fourth hour, losses of 1 to more than 3 points were well in the majority. Dealings slowed at frequent intervals.

Commonwealth and Southern was the liveliest slider. Prominent stumblers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, General Motors, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, du Pont, Union Carbide and Philip Morris. Abraham & Straus common fell 10 points on a 10-share sale.

53rd Birthday Of Walther League Celebrated Here

The 53rd birthday of the Walther League was celebrated by the Senior and Junior Walther Leagues of Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livingston street, on Tuesday evening, May 28.

Under the leadership of Conrad Weil, master of ceremonies, the affair was a great success. The work of the league was portrayed by a skit entitled "875". The "875" referred to the address of the new Lutheran Youth building on North Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. A resume of the skit showed that the Walther League provided the Lutheran service men with 25,000 copies of the Daily Devotion Booklets in 1945. $44,000 was collected by the league for the Wartime Service Fund and $255,000 for the support of the tuberculosis hospital at Wheatridge, Colo.

As is the custom at these affairs each year a few words were spoken by a representative of the congregation. Norman Luedtke encouraged the Leaguers to continue in Christ and brought forth the fact that they are giving a great service to their country in aiding in the reduction of juvenile delinquency.

The main speaker of the evening was William Lyons, blind fellow member, who presented the outlook of those who dwell in darkness. The committee feels sure that those who heard Mr. Lyons will better understand the disadvantages of the loss of sight.

Pastor Witte presented an interesting and timely talk and led the candlelighting ceremony, symbol of the union with the thousands of Lutheran youth in confirmation of fellowship in the light of the Cross of Christ. It was dedicated to the Walther Leaguers who gave their last full measure of devotion.

During the evening community singing was led by Jack Goerke. Musical entertainment was furnished by "Cowboy Bill," "Smiling Billy" and "Yodelin' Bob" well known WKNY radio artists.

The committee in charge of arrangements was Conrad Weil, Carl Wieke, Alfred Marquart and Dorothy Studt.

The first American Automobile Show was held in Madison Square Garden in New York City in 1900.

A Popping Fire
Kansas City, June 4 (P)—Fire broke out in the home of Leslie E. White, Jr., spare-time hunter. Neighbor Eugene Holman rushed to it with his garden hose.

"I heard a lot of funny popping and puffing noises," reported Holman, "but I was too busy to wonder very much about it."

Holmes said he didn't believe the dog was mad—but Stomberg was. Morrison was fined $7.40 on disorderly conduct charges. Stomberg was out a pair of pants.

ELDERS OF THE PEOPLE

The nation's oldest senator, Carter Glass of Virginia, died at 88 the other day, and senators halted their acrimonious debates to do their colleague homage. For half a century he had served in public offices, including that of secretary of the treasury under Wilson. His accomplishments were many, among them "fathering" the Federal Reserve banking system. His personality was peppery and colorful and he had the courage of his convictions.

For the last four years infirmities of age kept him from representing in person in the senate chamber the state that had sent him so long to Washington. He fretted over his inactivity for he was no shirker. He followed proceedings and voted by proxy. But this was not enough to suit constituents. Pressure for his resignation, and even for his forced removal, were persistent. He himself paid no heed to the clamor.

The matter raises a nice question as to when a person becomes "too old." Age alone is an unsatisfactory yardstick. Arbitrary retirement schedules often shelve a worker who still has much to contribute. On the other hand, no sight is sorer than a man clinging to his post by his gray beard, as it were, with all the machinery he touches thrown out of gear thereby. Youth, and if must be the mistakes of youth, are better far than that.

One firm which the occupation forces in the American zone in Germany have allowed to continue in business is a pharmaceutical company. It is the largest manufacturer of aspirin in the world. No doubt the Germans need a lot right now.

SLOW RELIEF

It has been with a sigh of relief, and a red face, that our charitable Uncle Sam has started dispatching big cargoes of grain and other foodstuffs to Europe on a really big scale, to save that harassed continent from starvation. Our foreign friends have found it very hard to understand the delay in fulfilling such promises, so that some of the London newspapers recently began referring to it as "the great food mystery." Indeed our own people couldn't understand it. Now the food is pouring into England and other countries, but it will be long before the people for whom it was intended forget their sad wait.

More than ever before in these times, "he gives twice who gives quickly." What may seem like trivial postponement here may mean life or death there.

SWIMMING TIME

There have been many drownings lately among boys and girls, and there is a natural tendency on the part of parents and friends to urge the children to keep away from the streams and pools and lakes. But this is hard to accomplish. Outdoor bathing is one of the oldest sports in the world and one of the most alluring and healthful.

The better way, whether it is possible, is to teach the children to swim and, at the same time, make sure that they understand the dangers that go with this fine sport. It is good, also, when it can be done, to have grown-ups around for instruction and safety.

What a plight the country would have been in if the railroad strike had been called while gasoline rationing was still on!

WOODEN SHOE MARCH

"You can't beat the Dutch" seems to have been a true saying. No country suffered more than Holland. A third the size of Illinois, the country lost its best customer, Germany, had its lands flooded, its biggest cities bombed, its food removed. Loss, estimated according to a Dutch news release, amounted to almost 15 billion dollars.

But a year after Europe's war's end, the country is in better order than any other on the continent. Physical rebuilding has gone on apace through railroads and canals are still

TRADE AND TARIFFS

The American people are so busy with strikes and speeches that they are not yet stirred by the arrangements that are being made in the loan and trade agreements affecting their standard of living. As a matter of fact, so much is actually being arranged in the economic field that we know nothing about, that some day we shall wake up to discover the consequences of our lack of knowledge and vigilance.

Stated simply, this is the situation that faces us: The cost of production in the United States is based upon the wage scale; the American wage scale is so high that our products are practically non-competitive in world markets. The practical question is whether $1.00 an hour goods can compete with $0.50 an hour goods. There is enough advantage in superior know-how and efficiency to make up the difference; whether the socialized nations will not use our money, the credits we extend to them, to fight us in world markets.

Yet, it is the policy of this Administration to reduce tariffs substantially, our own and everybody else's. As the United States is the principal world market into which every country seeks to pour not only surplus but as much goods as possible, it is doubtful whether it matters much if other countries reduce their tariffs; but it will definitely affect our standard of living and our wage scale ultimately, if our tariffs are so reduced that Czechoslovakia can, for instance, send shoes to our land in a torrent of cheapness.

To offset reduction of tariffs, we demand that all preferences be eliminated, but how is that possible when so many countries in Europe are tied into the Soviet economy? The very word, preference, is intended to relate to the British Empire, but we are as much concerned with Germany and Manchuria, with every market that can be made available.

Three points in the State Department's "Proposals for Expansion of World Trade and Employment" require deep study:

"That quotas and embargoes be limited without discrimination."

"That export subsidies be confined to exceptional cases, under a tariff table."

"That governments conducting foreign trade by their own agencies agree to give fair treatment to the commerce of all friendly countries and to make their purchases and sales on purely economic grounds."

What are exceptional cases? With so much of the world socialized, with governments engaging in every type of production and commerce, at what point does the movement of goods cease to be business and become politics? It is an amazing picture that Soviet Russia, as a political body, is violently anti-Peron in the Argentine, but as a business organization, it is setting up trade arrangements which strengthen Peron. Business is business. And when governments engage in business, business is also politics. And in a socialized world, it is altogether impossible to know when it is business and when it is politics.

The French loan is a case in point. From a business standpoint, it is impossible to justify the loan. If a private citizen accepted the kind of security the Treasury of the United States has accepted from France, no bank examiner would pass the bank as sound. Obviously, the loan is political. It is designed to tie France into the Anglo-American Alliance which exists as a political, economic and military reality. France is willing to accept the flattery and its consequences. It is business and politics. We shall have to take goods in payment for that loan. Of course, we shall take from France fancy perfumes, wines, dresses, tourism and all sorts of luxuries. But shall we take steel from Great Britain, machinery from the Skoda works, chemicals, in due course, from Germany?

The difficulty that we face is that if we lend money, we must take goods. If we sell goods, we must buy something. All sorts of devices will be invented, but the significant question is, what can we do to lower our standard of living, throw our workers into unemployment? It is not an easy nut to crack, no matter who tries and with what. (Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PEPTIC ULCER

Before World War II, peptic ulcer was quite common among the civil population although many of us may think that it was the war that caused and is causing so many cases.

It is not hard to understand why peptic ulcer should occur among high strung emotional individuals because these disturbances affect the entire nervous system which in turn controls all the processes of the body—heart, lungs, kidneys, bladder, intestines and others. Just as the emotions cause the heart to beat rapidly so do they cause the movements of the stomach and the manufacture of stomach digestive juices to increase, the acid of which causes the hole or ulcer in lining of stomach and of first part of small intestine.

It would seem that every few months a new treatment for peptic ulcer is discovered and its value shown in the treatment of a number of cases. It is not surprising then that a research physician should work out a method of treatment in which the strong acid juice manufactured by the emotional individual (or where the ulcer is caused by infection) is replaced by normal gastric juice.

In the American Journal of Digestive Diseases, Dr. L. M. Morrison reports that he removed gastric ulcers from 11 normal persons and 10 peptic ulcer patients with peptic ulcer. Ten patients with uncomplicated peptic ulcer (as shown by X-rays with spasm, increased length of time needed by the stomach to empty itself and the usual pain occurs 2 to 3 hours after eating) were placed on a well-balanced diet. One half ounce of normal gastric juice, diluted with two ounces of tap water, was fed to each patient every hour during working hours. No other medicine was given. Eight of the 10 patients became free from ulcer symptoms in from twenty-four to forty-eight hours. No ulcer symptoms have occurred in these 8 patients during a three-year follow-up period. Of the two who were not helped one had suffered with ulcer for nineteen years and the other for twenty-five years.

Just as insulin, then, can prevent symptoms of diabetes, so, apparently, normal gastric juice can relieve symptoms of peptic ulcer.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Depressing the tracks of the West Shore railroad under Broadway would cost between five and six million dollars according to the testimony of John G. Brennan, grade crossing engineer for the railroad, at a public hearing held before the Public Service Commission at Albany on May 9, 1929.

Representatives of the city and Ulster county at the hearing urged that no action be taken by the commission to eliminate the crossing until a survey and estimate of the cost of depressing the tracks had been filed with the commission.

Mayor E. J. Dempsey, Corporation Counsel Harry H. Flemming, City Engineer G. Wallace Godwin, and Aldermen Fred M. Dresel and John E. Hull of the railroad committee or the common council, represented the city at the hearing, while the county was represented by County Attorney Robert G. Groves.

The Central Business Men's Association was represented by Attorney J. Edward Conway, Max Baker of this city also attended the hearing.

For years the Central Business Men's Association has been fighting the order of the Public Service Commission to depress Broadway under the railroad tracks, contending that the depression of the railroad was the best solution of the problem.

It was expected that actual work of eliminating the crossing would be started when World War 2 broke out, and all grade crossing elimination work was suspended for the duration of the war.

Now that the war is ended it is said that the lack of material, such as steel, is holding up the work of elimination.

The elimination of the Broadway crossing has been a problem that has been seriously considered since the turn of the century and many plans have been filed with the Public Service Commission.

The commission, however, has never rescinded its order directing the crossing be eliminated by depressing the street under the tracks.

When the actual work of eliminating will start is a question that as yet is still unanswered.

I recall that during the administration of Mayor Palmer Canfield that models were prepared showing how Broadway would appear after the crossing was eliminated. These models were displayed for some time in the show windows of the stores both uptown and downtown.

If memory serves me right the models were destroyed in the fire that gutted the city hall in 1928.

Molotov's Question About Iceland Caused Much Disappointment in U. S. Official Quarters—Has He Forgotten Sacrifices?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 4—Of all the comments recently exchanged between spokesmen for Russia and the United States, none caused more poignant disappointment in official quarters here than the Russian foreign minister's curious question about Iceland.

The fact that a man as high up in the Russian government as Molotov should so soon forget the sacrifices made by American citizens to maintain a convoy route to Murmansk through the war and that any question should be asked now about the strategic importance of Iceland has made a disturbing impression here.

Mr. Molotov said in his recent statement: "For instance, what interests of the security of the U. S. A. dictate the demand for military bases in Iceland? Evidently what matters here is by no means the security of the U. S. but entirely different aspirations."

Have the Russian government's spokesmen already forgotten how the United States got supplies into Russia to help the Soviet state off the Hitler armies? Do the Russian people know that Molotov is belittling the sacrifices of those brave American and British sailors who were killed or drowned as the Nazi submarines made their attacks?

Do the Russians know that only when airplanes flying out of Iceland bases were able to destroy the German submarines the route to northern Russia was made secure?

The Soviet rulers make a point always in diplomatic talks about the importance of getting Polish territory or areas of the Balkans in order to protect Russia against future German aggression. Has Molotov overlooked the fact that the Atlantic ocean still exists and that if there is a basis for believing there may be another war of German aggression, the northern waters of the Atlantic will need as much protection by the British and American navies in such a war as in the last war?

The air patrols out of Iceland were a decisive factor in rendering aid to Russia. Likewise American and British naval vessels operated out of Iceland against units of the German fleet. If the Iceland bases and patrols had not functioned effectively, munitions and supplies needed by Russia in the critical days of 1942, 1943 and 1944 might have been a serious blow to Stalin's defense against the Nazi invasion.

Certainly the United States wants bases in Iceland. It wants them to protect Russia as much as any other country and under the Atlantic Charter, the Russian spokesmen can only be explained by their utter unfamiliarity with what happened in the Atlantic as well as in western Europe to win the war. Their sights have apparently been fixed on what happened in eastern Europe but it was not believed here that the system of censorship and suppression had reached the point where the foreign minister of Russia has not even been informed of the part Iceland played in making the survival of Russian armies possible.

Who burned the fiery crosses? If you read recently about a fiery cross burning in the yard of a Negro resident of Los Angeles, you probably jumped at the obvious conclusion. Angelenos, however, who are wise to the current political jive and the witchery of a certain noisy group out here, think the cross burner may have been not a Klansman this time but the Bear who walks like a goon.

Several crosses have been burned recently in the Los Angeles area and one night about two weeks ago the initials "KKK" were smeared on doors and windows of a building at the University of Southern California. Attorney General Kenny personally investigated each of these incidents, which gave him page one publicity.

He also died into an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan, calling up for questioning a number of men known to have belonged to that sheeted society in its heyday.

He apparently failed to find any active dragons or dragonettes here, but he got more page one publicity for himself and stirred race feeling.

Today university officials investigating the writing of the three ugly letters on the school building found a group other than the Ku Klux Klan is responsible. The announcement was made at the moment the meeting of 200 students, calling themselves "The Emergency Committee to Combat Racial Hatred" was being held in a nearby park, after university officials had banned it from the campus. Kenny was addressing the meeting.

Kenny, as Californians know, is campaigning for governor. In all his speeches he cries out against racial oppression; but it has not been easy to produce startling examples because this state has no Jim Crow laws and races here have been getting along well together.

The burning cross in the well-known Negro family immediately produced an incident—and racial groups to pull together.

Kenny's investigation so far has not put the finger on the offender. Neither have investigators of Senator Jack B. Tenney (not to be confused with Kenny's chairman of the fact-finding committee on Un-American Activities for the California legislature. Senator Tenney told me today he had been unable to find any trace of Klan activity in this vicinity, though he had the fullest cooperation of various groups including the Anti-Defamation League, whose officials had allowed Tenney's men a look inside some of their secret files.

When I mentioned that a woman accompanying the frightened Negro to the office of Attorney General Kenny following the first incident introduced herself as a Communist committee woman, Senator Tenney gave me this statement:

"The Communist party has been notorious for its cheating, deception, dishonesty and its willingness and eagerness to stoop to any crime so long as it furthered party objectives as much as one inch. The Communist party is certainly not incapable of planting fiery crosses at the homes of Negroes and desecrating Jewish synagogues in order to arouse racial and religious antagonism."

The arsonist who sets fire to a building in the alley and when the conflagration flares up then appears in the front street in full regalia as the rescuing fireman."

Tenney backed up his "parable of the arsonist" by reference to the Al Waxman investigation published in the 1945 report of the fact-finding committee. "Waxman," the report reads, "on the one hand, through the columns of his newspaper and by public meetings on street corners" was inciting the Mexicans to riot on the west side (Los Angeles) by telling them they were the victims of discrimination and on the other hand, he was urging the police to take drastic action against them."

The Marxists are stirring up racial feeling in San Diego, too. Recently they began badgering the owner of the Victory Theatre there trying to force him to fire his staff and employ only Negro help.

He had to go to court asking for his restraining order to keep them from picketing his place or "intimidating or obstructing any customer or employee of the theatre," and from committing acts of violence and making false statements about him and his business.

A more subtle technique to stir race antagonism, and at the same time smear the American Legion, was employed by three Leftists who infiltrated into a new Legion post in Hollywood. According to John Carson, commander of one of the old posts here in whose building the new unit met, the three fifth-columnists began trying to take over Legion policymaking prerogatives. When higher authority acted on them they went to newspapers and the radio with false statements. They had put up for membership a Japanese ex-serviceman and though the Legion post gladly took in the Nisei the propagandists charged publicly that the reason higher Legion officials and the majority of their own post were "fighting" them was because they had put up the Japanese for membership.

By the time Legion officials could complete an investigation the excitement had died down and the story no longer made headlines, so that true facts were lost in misstatements and innuendoes. It did not take the radio at all.

I want to add to the Legion's credit—that they had the courage to toss the three Reds out on their ears.

Sells Says Dewey Plan for Highways 'Most Progressive'

Cities Have Been Relieved of Burden for First Time of Arterial Road Cost

Rochester, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Captains of Governor Dewey's administration continued today a virtual running report to the State Conference of Mayors on expanding state financial aid to municipalities with an assurance "home rule" was not endangered.

The state superintendent of public works, Charles H. Sells, said in a prepared statement that Dewey recommended use of state money for improving arterial highway routes through cities was "one of the most progressive steps" in New York highway development.

"For the first time," Sells asserted, "cities have been relieved of the financial burden of providing for relief of these bottlenecks in our highway system."

He stressed that all principles of home rule would be preserved because arterial highway construction plans "cannot be advanced until they bear the stamp of local approval."

Surveys for the arterial highway routes have been made in every city, Sells said, and added that overall plans, combining arterial routes with local street systems, were necessary "before it is safe to proceed with any individual project."

He said the project funds, including a federal contribution, are allocated over a five-year period with construction scheduled for different cities each year.

State financing of arterial work within cities, he declared, was a "new idea," and he urged "continued harmony" with "no room for selfishness, nor for individual or group benefit."

Democratic Leader Approves of O'Dwyer

New York, June 4 (AP)—Paul E. Fitzpatrick, Democratic state chairman, turned northward again today in his tour of New York state after placing his stamp of approval on the administration of New York city's Mayor William O'Dwyer.

The state Democratic head, who already has conferred with party leaders and workers in the past few weeks in 32 northern counties, plans to visit Saratoga Springs this afternoon and Glens Falls tonight.

His endorsement of O'Dwyer came in a news conference yesterday when he declared that upstate Democrats believe that chances of carrying the state have been enhanced by O'Dwyer's administration.

Democratic leaders who accompanied Fitzpatrick declared that U. S. Senator James M. Moak continued in the lead for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with consideration being given in some quarters to James A. Farley.

A party spokesman said the tour showed also that upstate sentiment was behind former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman for the United States senatorial nomination.

Later Fitzpatrick was host to Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman and Secretary of Treasury Fred M. Vinson, at a closed, informal dinner attended by 200 state and city party leaders.

Among the guests were O'Dwyer, Edward J. Flynn, Bronx party leader and national committeeman from New York; Edward Loughlin, Tammany leader, and Irwin Stuegg, minority leader in the state.

Among county leaders present were Judge John S. Thorp of Nassau; Supervisor Joseph Kelly of Suffolk; and Edward Murray of Westchester.

Social Security Cards Are Needed By Resort Workers

Workers in summer resorts and hotels are included in the old-age and survivors insurance program and need social security account number cards; their employers are required to report their wages under the Social Security Act, Jerome S. Blumberg, manager of the Kingston office of the Social Security Board, stated today.

Housewives who have not worked previously outside of the home, men and women engaged in various occupations who have worked part-time and during vacation periods, high school youths, members of the armed forces, imported laborers from outside the United States, and teachers are affected by this coverage.

If you have never had a card, ask the nearest office of the Social Security Board for one. The office which covers Ulster county is located in the Central Post Office Building in Kingston. If you already have a card, you don't need another. If you have lost your card ask the nearest office for a duplicate. Don't ask for a new card. Get a duplicate with the same number on it. That number is the number of your social security account in Baltimore. If you ask for a new card, a second account will be set up for you and you may have trouble getting all your benefits when you claim them.

Fifty-year Grand Lodge service medals were presented to Alfred W. Tongue and Wesley Gregory at the regular stated communication of Roundout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., at Masonic Temple on Monday evening.

The presentation was made by Wyman C. Kniffen, district deputy grand master of the Greene-Ulster Masonic district.

Following the communication "Ladies' Night" was observed by the lodge with a large attendance of Master Masons, their wives and friends.

Frank Strobel, master of the lodge, had arranged an interesting program of entertainment which included Roger Baer and his pupils in a musical program; Fred L. Van Deusen, well-known local magician, and an illustrated talk on Yellowstone Park by the Rev. Herbert Killinger of Trinity Methodist Church.

At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served in the dining hall, and a social hour enjoyed.

Will Withhold Milk

Romulus, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Seneca county dairymen have voted to withhold their milk from market beginning July 1 in a move for higher prices, provided producers in 75 per cent of the counties in the New York milkshed take similar action. Holton Wilkins of Interlaken, county dairy action committee chairman, said the dairymen sought a 25 per cent increase. The group acted last night. Similar votes have been taken by dairymen in several other counties of the milkshed, but federal and state action last week in announcing a 40 cents per hundredweight increase had been seen by leading dairy group officials as a deterrent to the strike threat.

Could Ease Food Shortage, if Folk Were Less Fussy

Thus Says Dr. Clark, Who Says 25 Per Cent of U. S. Food Goes Into Garbage Pail

By WILLIAM GLOVER

New York, June 4 (AP)—If mom, dad and the kids wouldn't be quite so fussy for a little while about what they eat, the world's food shortage could be eased greatly, says Dr. Harold F. Clark, economics professor of Teachers College of Columbia University.

Commenting on estimates of government officials and research investigators that 25 per cent of America's food supply goes to the garbage can, Clark said that much of the waste is caused by the nation's high standard of living and the fact that the public has been so educated that highly nutritious but lower grade foods cannot be marketed.

"If we had 10 years in which to help increase the world's food supply, it wouldn't pay to tighten up in such fashion," he points out. "It would be better to extend our production plant. If we want to make gains quickly, say during the next year, it would be in this way. It is anybody's guess, but possibly a 15 to 20 per cent gain could be obtained by taking lower grades."

An analysis by William Kling of the War Food Administration, placing the overall food waste at 23.7 per cent, shows that no food is waste-free and for all foods 9-1 per cent is lost on the farm after production, 9 percent in transit, 1.5 in storage, 4.3 in processing, 3.8 by wholesalers, 2.4 by retailers and 4.7 by the consumer.

"What agricultural economists have tended to call normal wastage is draining away 20 to 30 per cent of all the foods our farmers produce," adds Robert T. Oliver of Syracuse University. "Twenty-five acres of every 100 acres farmed are plowed, planted, cultivated and harvested with the produce to be discarded finally as waste."

300 Pounds of Food
An analytical study of garbage collected in 247 cities showed that the garbage contained an average of 300 pounds of food per person per year. One grocery firm estimates that shoppers handling food in stores destroy 8½ million pounds of green vegetables a year.

Part of the waste on farms, says Clark and other experts, is due to rodents and wild animals, but man-made factors such as labor maldistribution during harvests, mechanized methods which make complete efficiency impractical, improper packing, inadequate refrigeration and lack of rapid transit occur along the distribution line.

Clark says, in tracing the increase of food waste since the advent of mechanized civilization, "there is a tendency to let production go up, and not watch waste. Larger production is achieved if waste is not watched closely."

For example, he says, in machine harvesting of grain the equipment doesn't reach grain standing in field corners because the overall harvesting process would be greatly slowed thereby. Instead more acreage is planted.

Declaring that improvements in refrigeration, storing methods and prepackaging of goods for the retail market offer hope of some ultimate reduction in spoilage waste, the educator says: "The biggest gain would be in salvaging the lower grades, all the way through the distribution process."

Another indication of efforts to curtail loss is given by Harvey Baum, purchasing head of the Great Atlantic & Pacific food chain, who declares that the firm has achieved a 70 per cent reduction in fresh fruit and vegetable spoilage since 1922 through elimination of transportation handicaps.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

Stockholm, June 4 (AP)—Sweden has the quietest street traffic in the world. It's against the law for motorists to sound their horns, so they've learned to use their brakes. Accidents are fewer and the pedestrian is considered to have some rights.

Bicycles abound throughout Scandinavia and many main roads have special paths for cyclists. Children in Denmark seem to learn to cycle before they walk and teenage boys and girls think nothing of a 25-mile picnic jaunt. Even Grandma and Grandpa pedal about town on bicycles. And they manage to look dignified.

The nights are tricky this time of year for visitors. It never gets really darker than a spring twilight in America. The Scandinavians are so glad to get rid of the everlasting night of winter that they sleep only a few hours at a time to get the most of the sun. Like the Germans, they are sun worshippers and at every opportunity stretch out on beach and porch and park grass to get an early season tan.

Swedish people have occupied one area longer than probably any race in history without notable admixtures. It wouldn't be fair to say they are inbred, but they certainly are more stolid and matter-of-fact than their brethren in other northern countries. The Finns are reported to be the hardest workers, the Norwegians are perhaps the heaviest drinkers, and the Danes are the most like Americans in outlook. They are prosperous but like to spend their money, whereas you sometimes get the impression the Swedes are looking around to see if anyone is trying to take theirs away from them.

Most Popular Display

The most popular display in Stockholm isn't the windows full of cheese, butter and eggs. It is a store exhibiting two civilian style jeeps complete with side curtains and all kinds of fancy trimmings. American soldiers on leave stand and gawk at them and cause crowds to gather.

Swedish women traveling to other European countries can make more than pocket money from their country's plenty. One bought a mink coat for 12,000 kroner in Stockholm and took it along to London where she had no trouble disposing of it for 40,000 kroner—a neat profit of better than $7,000. By such methods a Swedish couple can finance a vacation trip to England or France and come out well ahead.

In any Scandinavian country an American is stopped at least twice a day by some stranger who says: "My, it's good to hear that language again." It really gives you a warm feeling of welcome.

Girls Hard to Understand

Visiting American soldiers have some difficulty understanding Scandinavian girls. Prostitution is almost unknown and street pickups are rare compared to such cities as Rome, London and Paris.

There are many more women than men—why, I don't know—and it's strictly a man's world. Swedish women have the same criticism against their husbands as many Englishwomen. That is, that courtship ceases completely at the altar and thereafter the man often regards his wife as no more than a household drudge and slipper-carrier.

You can tell what Scandinavian land you're in by saying, "The Germans are really having it tough now." If your auditor replies "it's good enough for them," you are in Norway or Denmark. If he lets out a sympathetic cluck—you're in Sweden.

GAS and ELECTRIC BILLS

WHY A TWO-MONTH POST CARD BILL?

Cost of Service Appreciably Reduced

Two-month post card billing was adopted as a war measure to conserve paper and manpower. This obviously resulted in a reduction in the cost of the operation. The saving was small, however, by comparison with other increased costs of operation experienced by the company in common with all business and industry. In spite of an overall increase in costs, the company reduced its total charges for electric service during the war, and at the first of this year made a further reduction in anticipation of the tax relief applicable in 1946. Such rate reductions during the past four years aggregate $281,000 per year and take into consideration the savings due to our present billing practices. The great majority of our customers share in this saving which averages $3.37 per year per customer served. This amount is approximately equivalent to the monthly bill of the average residential electric customer.

If the expensive practice of rendering bills monthly and in envelopes is restored, the customers will eventually have to pay the increased cost, which we estimate would be $130,000 a year, or $1.55 for each customer served. This cost is not now included in the company's rates, and if incurred, must necessarily limit the ability of the company to further reduce its rates.

Additional Savings to Customers

Aside from enabling the company to reduce its rates, the two-month billing plan results in further savings to the customer. In the case where the customer pays his bill by mail, at least an additional forty-eight cents per year will be saved. This amount will include six checks or money orders costing at least thirty cents and postage of eighteen cents. In the case where the customer pays his bill in cash, six extra trips to the office will be saved together with the added inconvenience and expense which might be involved.

Monthly Payment Plans

There are two methods by which a customer may pay on a monthly basis. Under the first method the customer supplies the company with his meter reading in the intervening months on post cards supplied by the company. Under the second method the company renders a so-called budget bill in the intervening months, using an amount agreed upon by the customer. This amount would normally be fixed by the customer at about one-half of his average two-month bill and would, when paid, be shown on the customer's two-month bill as a payment on account.

Do Other Utilities Use Two-Month Billing?

Both two-month billing and post card billing are used by many other gas and electric companies for the same reasons that they are used in the Central Hudson territory. In Detroit two-month bills for electric service have been rendered for nearly thirty years. In New York City and vicinity, two-month billing for both gas and electricity has been effective for several years. Customers in the Harlem Valley and in and beyond the Catskills served by an adjacent utility company receive bills every two months. A survey by the electric and gas trade associations last year showed that over half the 20,000,000 customers served by forty-nine companies which reported were then billed every two months. In New York State bills for utility service are mailed on post cards in Westchester County, Albany, Oneonta, Binghamton, Syracuse, and many other communities, large and small, which are supplied by other utility companies.

Public Service Commission Viewpoint

The billing methods in question have been established in accordance with rate schedules made effective in the manner provided in the State Public Service Law and in accordance with the regulations of the State Public Service Commission. In Case No. 11639, March 20, 1946, involving electric rates in New York City, the Public Service Commission said—"Whether the savings from bi-monthly meter reading are $2,000,000, $5,000,000, $15,000,000, is largely beside the point. There is no doubt that the saving is considerable and that the cost of service is appreciably reduced; but the larger the saving, the greater is the desirability of the plan . . . the company should be required, if it had not offered, to read meters bi-monthly and bill customers bi-monthly in order that the cost of service might be reduced and rates lowered.

"The Commission has repeatedly stated that every utility is under obligation to provide adequate service at the lowest possible rates and that it should economize wherever possible and eliminate all waste and unnecessary expense."

The Public Service Commission has similarly recognized the propriety of post card billing by issuance of an order on August 6, 1942, stating the conditions under which post cards may be used.

The Public Must Choose

Adequate and dependable electric and gas service is essential to our customers. The company is obligated to make whatever expenditures are necessary to provide such service. It has the further obligation, however, to continuously study new methods and new techniques so that the customer may be given the benefit of any developments which result in lower costs or improvements in the quality of the service.

The time and manner of rendering bills involve only the convenience of the customer and add nothing to the value of the service itself. We believe that our customers generally prefer to pay somewhat lower rates for gas and electricity and to spend the saving as they wish, rather than to pay higher rates to cover unnecessary costs such as those involved in monthly and envelope billing. This view is supported by previous surveys of customer opinion made through interviews with a representative sample of customers in different communities. These surveys show that only approximately 3% of our customers objected to a two-month bill, and only a very minor percentage objected to post card billing.

General Winwright's Prayer

Oh, God, our Father, today we give Thee thanks for the things we take for granted, for freedom, for security of life, for food and shelter and the presence of loved ones. We thank Thee that men long denied these blessings have through sacrifice and pain, once more attained them.

Keep us humble in the day of victory, make us wise in the presence of great problems, strong and brave in face of any danger and sympathetic and generous as we face the appalling need of a war-torn world. In gratitude for all those who paid the price of victory, we now ask Thy guidance as we dedicate ourselves to that cause for which they gave their last whole measure of devotion. Lord of Hosts be with us yet, lest we forget! Amen.

—Johnathan M. Winwright, General, United States Army

Judge—Why, yes, madam. It's a proper question, and at your time of life you surely need not be sensitive about your age.

Mrs. Skaggs (reluctantly)—Well, I'm 97.

Judge (interposing)—Now, madam, that admission didn't hurt much, did it?

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

Stockholm, June 4 (AP)—Sweden has the quietest street traffic in the world. It's against the law for motorists to sound their horns, so they've learned to use their brakes. Accidents are fewer and the pedestrian is considered to have some rights.

Bicycles abound throughout Scandinavia and many main roads have special paths for cyclists. Children in Denmark seem to learn to cycle before they walk and teen-age boys and girls think nothing of a 25-mile picnic jaunt. Even Grandma and Grandpa pedal about town on bicycles. And they manage to look dignified.

The nights are tricky this time of year for visitors. It never gets really darker than a spring twilight in America. The Scandinavians are so glad to get rid of the everlasting night of winter that they sleep only a few hours at a time to get the most of the sun. Like the Germans, they are sun worshippers and at every opportunity stretch out on beach and porch and park grass to get an early season tan.

Swedish people have occupied one area longer than probably any race in history without notable admixtures. It wouldn't be fair to say they are inbred, but they certainly are more stolid and matter-of-fact than their brethren in other northern countries. The Finns are reported to be the hardest workers, the Norwegians are perhaps the heaviest drinkers, and the Danes are the most like Americans in outlook. They are prosperous but like to spend their money, whereas you sometimes get the impression the Swedes are looking around to see if anyone is trying to take theirs away from them.

Most Popular Display
The most popular display in Stockholm isn't the windows full of cheese, butter and eggs. It is a store exhibiting two civilian style jeeps complete with side curtains and all kinds of fancy trimmings. American soldiers on leave stand and gawk at them and cause crowds to gather.

Swedish women traveling to other European countries can make more than pocket money from their country's plenty. One bought a milk coat for 12,000 kroner in Stockholm and took it along to London where she had no trouble disposing of it for 40,000 kroner—a neat profit of better than $7,000. By such methods a Swedish couple can finance a vacation trip to England or France and come out well ahead.

In any Scandinavian country an American is stopped at least twice a day by some stranger who says, "My, it's good to hear that language again." It really gives you a warm feeling of welcome.

Girls Hard to Understand
Visiting American soldiers have some difficulty understanding Scandinavian girls. Prostitution is almost unknown and street pickups are rare compared to such cities as Rome, London and Paris.

There are many more women than men—why, I don't know—and it's strictly a man's world.

Swedish women have the same criticism against their husbands as many Englishwomen. That is, that courtship ceases completely at the altar and thereafter the man often regards his wife as no more than a household drudge and slipper-carrier.

You can tell what Scandinavian land you're in by saying, "The Germans are really having it tough now." If your auditor replies "it's good enough for them," you are in Norway or Denmark. If he lets out a sympathetic cluck—you're in Sweden.

GAS and ELECTRIC BILLS

WHY A TWO-MONTH POST CARD BILL?

Cost of Service Appreciably Reduced

Two-month post card billing was adopted as a war measure to conserve paper and manpower. This obviously resulted in a reduction in the cost of the operation. The saving was small, however, by comparison with other increased costs of operation experienced by the company in common with all business and industry. In spite of an overall increase in costs, the company reduced its total charges for electric service during the war, and at the first of this year made a further reduction in anticipation of the tax relief applicable in 1946. Such rate reductions during the past four years aggregate $281,000 per year and take into consideration the savings due to our present billing practices. The great majority of our customers share in this saving which averages $3.37 per year per customer served. This amount is approximately equivalent to the monthly bill of the average residential electric customer.

If the expensive practice of rendering bills monthly and in envelopes is restored, the customers will eventually have to pay the increased cost, which we estimate would be $130,000 a year, or $1.55 for each customer served. This cost is not now included in the company's rates, and if incurred, must necessarily limit the ability of the company to further reduce its rates.

Additional Savings to Customers

Aside from enabling the company to reduce its rates, the two-month billing plan results in further savings to the customer. In the case where the customer pays his bill by mail, at least an additional forty-eight cents per year will be saved. This amount will include six checks or money orders costing at least thirty cents and postage of eighteen cents. In the case where the customer pays his bill in cash, six extra trips to the office will be saved together with the added inconvenience and expense which might be involved.

Monthly Payment Plans

There are two methods by which a customer may pay on a monthly basis. Under the first method the customer supplies the company with his meter reading in the intervening months on post cards supplied by the company. Under the second method the company renders a so-called budget bill in the intervening months, using an amount agreed upon by the customer. This amount would normally be fixed by the customer at about one-half of his average two-month bill and would, when paid, be shown on the customer's two-month bill as a payment on account.

Do Other Utilities Use Two-Month Billing?

Both two-month billing and post card billing are used by many other gas and electric companies for the same reasons that they are used in the Central Hudson territory. In Detroit two-month bills for electric service have been rendered for nearly thirty years. In New York City and vicinity, two-month billing for both gas and electricity has been effective for several years. Customers in the Harlem Valley and in and beyond the

Public Service Commission Viewpoint

The billing methods in question have been established in accordance with rate schedules made effective in the manner provided in the State Public Service Law and in accordance with the regulations of the State Public Service Commission. In Case No. 11639, March 20, 1946, involving electric rates in New York City, the Public Service Commission said—"Whether the savings from bi-monthly meter reading are $2,000,000, $5,000,000, $15,000,000, is largely beside the point. There is no doubt that the saving is considerable and that the cost of service is appreciably reduced; but the larger the saving, the greater is the desirability of the plan . . . the company should be required, if it had not offered, to read meters bi-monthly and bill customers bi-monthly in order that the cost of service might be reduced and rates lowered.

"The Commission has repeatedly stated that every utility is under obligation to provide adequate service at the lowest possible rates and that it should economize wherever possible and eliminate all waste and unnecessary expense."

The Public Service Commission has similarly recognized the propriety of post card billing by issuance of an order on August 6, 1942, stating the conditions under which post cards may be used.

The Public Must Choose

Adequate and dependable electric and gas service is essential to our customers. The company is obligated to make whatever expenditures are necessary to provide such service. It has the further obligation, however, to continuously study new methods and new techniques so that the customer may be given the benefit of any developments which result in lower costs or improvements in the quality of the service.

The time and manner of rendering bills involve only the convenience of the customer and add nothing to the value of the service itself. We believe that our customers generally prefer to pay somewhat lower rates for gas and electricity and to spend the saving as they wish, rather than to pay higher rates to cover unnecessary costs such as those involved in monthly and envelope billing. This view is supported by previous surveys of customer opinion made through interviews with a representative sample of customers in different communities. These surveys show that only approximately 3% of our customers objected to a two-month bill, and only a very minor percentage objected to post card billing.

We are arranging to conduct further surveys during the next several months on the basis of the facts presented in this statement.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

A QUESTIONABLE IMPULSE

Very few conventions of good taste have encountered such difficult problems as those concerning the point of view of the divorced. For example, this letter asks: "The ex-husband of a divorced acquaintance just died and I don't know whether I should express my sympathy to her or not. I never have seen any rule about such a circumstance."

According to the conventions of yesterday, a greater offense scarcely could be committed than talking to a divorcee about her ex-husband. Today, however, when many of those who are divorced have remained friends, the answer is definite only when you know a particular person's attitude. Quite definitely, the rule of safety is to avoid broaching the subject unless you know the friend well enough to know whether she would welcome such interest or resent it.

'Jr.' Inseparable
Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me the proper way to address an envelope to a child of ten, whose name is Robert L. Brown, Jr. Should it be written just like that on the envelope or "Master Robert L. Brown with or without the 'Jr.'? I think he's too young for "Jr." and if I write "Master," would the "Jr." after his name be necessary? Is it part of his name, whether necessary or not?

Answer: "Jr." is as much a part of his name as "Robert L." unless you write "Master Bobby Brown" or whatever he is called if not Robert.

The Hostess On a Diet
Dear Mrs. Post: I wish you would tell me what I should do. I have been attending health lectures and have learned that certain stimulants and good foods are not as good for us as others which are non-stimulating and not so highly refined. Therefore, I have eliminated many items from my diet, replacing them with the health foods. But what has me worried is this: When I have guests for dinner, may I serve dishes prepared as I do them now for myself or must I provide the ones more commonly eaten?

Answer: This depends entirely upon how palatable they are. If they are strange gruels, especially those which are completely saltless or include some very special, and not very appetizing mixture, then you should have at least one or possibly two ordinary dishes prepared for your guests.

Menus for all occasions are found in Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Buffet Dinners, Lunches and Suppers," obtainable for a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to this newspaper. Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Testimony Given

McGeary Asked

$100,000 in Fees

New York, June 4 (AP)—Testimony was given in General Sessions Court yesterday that William J. McGeary, one of the two A.F.L. union officers charged with attempted extortion, proposed in January, 1939, that the Dravo Corporation of Pittsburgh pay $100,000 to the union.

McGeary and Martin J. Parkinson, both of Yonkers, N. Y., are charged with trying to extort $100,000 from Foley Brothers, associated with the Pleasantville Contractors, Inc., in a $100,000 tunnel job, and another $100,000 from Dravo.

McGeary is president of the Building and Construction Trades Council of Westchester county and Parkinson is business agent of Local 137, International Union of Operating Engineers.

The testimony was given by E. T. Gott, vice-president of Dravo who told Judge James Garret Wallace and a jury that the corporation rejected the proposal.

Gott testified that McGeary's proposal was made in a New York hotel after discussions on workers' pay raises were in progress. The proposed payment later was reduced to $50,000, Gott said, but the Dravo Corporation also rejected this.

The company official said Dravo would have been willing to pay either $50,000 of $100,000 if it were assured the money would go to the workers instead of the union leaders. He added that this suggestion was not satisfactory to them.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Josh Gibson and Homestead Grays Here Wednesday Night

Great Negro Club Will Battle Recs At City Stadium

Fitzgerald or Nicholis to Pitch for Locals; Interest in Contest Presages Big Crowd

The first all-star attraction of the 1946 baseball season is scheduled for municipal stadium Wednesday evening when the colorful Homestead Grays, with Josh Gibson heading the list, appear in the second night clash of the year against the Kingston Recreations. Game time is scheduled for 9 o'clock sharp, and interest in the game presages another banner turnout.

Rained out of their scheduled game with the Puerto Rican Stars last Saturday evening, the Recreations will have their work cut out for them in this battle. Kingston displayed plenty of power both at the plate and in the field in the opening night triumph over the Chance Voughts but Wednesday's outing with the Negro National League club is one which will test the locals completely.

Manager Joe Hoffman hasn't made his pitching choice available as yet but he is toying with either Dick Fitzgerald or Ed Nicholis. Fitz started for the Recs against the Voughts and despite some arm trouble, came through with a remarkable performance. Johnny Needham came on in the late innings to relieve him. The rest of the Rec lineup will be the same as in the first game.

Out for Speedy Straight
Scheduling of the Homesteaders always makes a big hit with local fans and it is figured the uptown ball park will be the scene of a sellout through when these two clubs swing into action tomorrow night under the great lights. Kingston's last engagement with the Grays resulted in a 4 to 1 victory for the locals back in 1942 and Manager Hoffman's charges are anxious to make it two in a row over these crack septa stars.

Led by the famous Josh Gibson, tabbed by many as the Babe Ruth of the Negro National League, the Homesteaders will flash a colorful aggregation which will also include such stars as Buck Leonard, Sam Bankhead, Jim Bell, Dick Carlisle, Howard Easterling, Garnet Blair, Bob Thurman, Dave Hoskins, Alonzo Perry, Roy Welmaker, Harold Harriett, Jerry Benjamin, Dan Wilson and Frank Williams.

Gibson, who holds down the catching berth for the Grays, needs no introduction to local fans as his contribution to the national pastime has been of the brilliant nature. Josh's big time career started on July 2, 1930 when he replaced Buck Ewing, hard-hitting catcher who was beloved by Kingston fans as a member of the Chaplains. The Grays liked the big kid with the powerful bat so much that Buck never got back into the lineup.

Gibson played with the Homesteaders in 1931 but joined up with Gus Greenlee's Pittsburgh Crawfords in 1932 and continued to play with that outfit through the season of 1936, when he returned to the Grays.

Four Homers in Game
One of Gibson's great days came in 1938 when he was playing against the Memphis Red Sox at Zanesville, Ohio. In this tilt he cracked out four homers, all sailing out of the ball park. Then in 1938, again against the Memphis club at Monessen, he belted a round-tripper out of the park which went 513 feet. The great septa catcher also has eluded many a homer at the Yankee Stadium where games of the Negro National League are played.

The Negro monarch of clout sends six feet, one inch and weighs 215 pounds. In the Havana League of 1941 he was awarded a trophy for being the most valuable player, an award which cannot be taken lightly by any of his opponents.

The great catcher has often been connected with Jimmy Fox as his resemblance in brown. He is a natural all the way with super power in his shoulders and wrists and now, 16 years since his debut, he is still one of the most dreaded batters in baseball.

Gibson, Leonard and Benjamin are the home run clouters on the

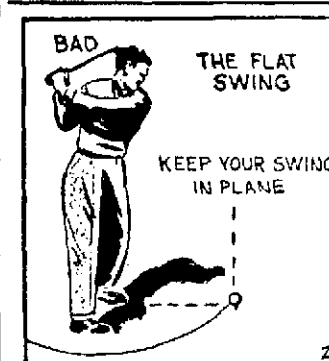

WAITING FOR THE BALL TO COME IN

Tom McBride, Boston Red Sox outfielder, slides safely into second on a wild throw by White Sox shortstop Luke Appling to Second Baseman Don Killoway who waits for the ball in the first inning of the teams' first game of a double-header in Boston. Twaalfskill Golfers Look Forward to June 15 Meet

Better Golf By SAM SNEAD

2. The upright swing is, mechanically, the best swing. Pictured is a player physically well-qualified to use an upright swing but at the top his hands, instead of being over the top of his right shoulder, are in the flat swing position. His left arm is almost horizontal. Instead, his hands should be held high and over the point of his right shoulder. The right shoulder would be up and his left down. In this position his straight left arm would be pointing at the ball. Then he'd be swinging correctly in as perpendicular a plane as will deliver the best result. With a perpendicular swing there is less likelihood of either hooking or slicing because the clubhead can travel along the direction line for a greater distance. Only the player who is extremely short and wants to use a flat swing in order to use a longer club and therefore get more distance, or the very heavy man with a body big in the center, should use the flat swing.

(Editor's Note: Send for the printed diagram showing the approximate relation of feet to ball for all normal wood and iron shots. Just enclose a three-cent stamp, self-addressed envelope for reply.)

Grays' roster. Leonard is fast, shifty, sure-handed and considered the dean of Negro first basemen. He is a sharp, powerful hitter and keeps Gibson hustling every day to remain top batter. Leonard hits more homers than any other player in the loop except Gibson.

Ed O'Reilly, a 20-handicap former, took second place when he negotiated the edge of the 18th green. J. Richard Miller, Twaalfskill tournament chairman, was third about 15 yards from the 18th green. Miller's handicap is 10.

Van Gonsic will be up on the range, blistering the course with rounds of 38 and 37 for a 75. Miller carded 43 and 42 for 85, while O'Reilly toured the 18 holes in 51 and 53.

The first of a series of Ladies Days for the season is in progress today at Twaalfskill. A buffet luncheon will be served with Miss Adelaide Rice as hostess.

Air Forces Claim 21 World Records

Jet Propelled Planes Make Speeds Close to 500 Miles Per Hour

Wright Field, Dayton, O., June 4.—Twenty-one new world flight records were claimed today by the Army Air Forces, including top speeds approaching 500 miles per hour by jet propelled fighter planes.

A postwar Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star fighter averaged 400 miles an hour on one record run of 100 kilometers, or about 62 miles, April 19, it was announced. The former mark of 394 miles per hour was set by Major General Ernest Udet of Germany in a Heinkel 112.

British jet planes have exceeded 600 miles an hour but on a course of only three kilometers, and Army air spokesmen said attempts would be made later this summer to crack this record with the American plane.

The new records, which were set principally by jet fighters, B-29 bombers and helicopters, were announced by Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of air forces, at a national press conference at the Air Forces Research and Development Center here.

Former records, made before World War II, chiefly by German and Italian pilots, had stood during the conflict largely because military air forces were too busy fighting to try to put new marks in the book.

SCOREBOARD

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Detroit's hopes of repeating as American League and world champions were mighty slim today as the result of a series of night game injuries that sidelined such key men as Center Fielder Hunt Evers, Second Baseman Eddie Mayo and Pitcher Stubby Overmire for "from 10 days to two weeks."

Evers Breaks Jaw
Evers, one of the most promising newcomers to pop into the big show in many a day, appeared well on his way to winning the hard luck crown of 1946 with his second serious injury of the campaign—a broken jaw suffered last night in a collision with Mayo while chasing a fly ball at Griffith Stadium. Mayo injured his chest and his left thigh.

Both Evers and Mayo were carried off the field on stretchers and rushed to a Washington hospital, crashed while running for Dutch Leonard's short fly in the third inning.

During spring training Evers suffered a broken ankle and thumb in an exhibition game just after he had won the regular center field job from Barney Kosky. Only recently was he able to resume his place in Manager Steve O'Neill's regular lineup.

Mayo, a key man in the Tiger infield, had been slowed down by a leg injury but was the "life" of the ball club and an important factor in their flag chances.

Overmire Sprains Hand
Overmire sprained his left hand sliding into second base in the fifth inning. The stubby left-hander left the game with a 4-3 lead that shortly turned into a 7-4 Washington triumph when the Nats scored four runs in the home half of the frame.

Bill Kennedy, who replaced Starter Dutch Leonard, received credit for the victory that lifted the Tigers in their third place scrap before 27,121 fans. Reliever Hal White was the loser.

Not calculated to add any sunshine to the lives of Detroit followers was Boston's double triumph over Chicago's White Sox in which Dave (Boo) Ferriss, sophomore right-hander, registered his ninth straight victory as the Red Sox defeated Chicago, 6-1. The Pale Hose were even more helpless in the second game when Joe Dobson earned his sixth triumph with a five-hit, 5-2 verdict.

New York's Yankees turned on some old fashioned power—18 hits to annihilate the St. Louis Browns, 12-2, behind Rookie Clarence Marshall. They routed Nelson Brannen, 10-0.

In a seven-run first inning, but even so the Stadium gang just ground to the Bostonians who stretched their lead to seven games.

Cleveland and Philadelphia split a pair at Shibe Park, the Athletics coming back to take the second, 3-2, behind Dick Fowler after losing the opener, 6-5, despite a four-run rally in the last of the ninth.

Giants Continue Spree
Mel Ott's New York Giants made it three in a row over the Cardinals in St. Louis, Willard Marshall's ninth inning homer with Buddy Blatter on base saving the day for the Giants, 5-4, after they had kicked away an early 3-1 lead.

The Phillies earned their fifth triumph in six games, drubbing Pittsburgh, 8-1, with a 16-hit attack featuring a 400-foot homer by Catcher Andy Seminick.

Brooklyn, although idle along with Boston, Chicago and Cincinnati, upped its first place margin to four full games by virtue of St. Louis' defeat.

Jayrich to Drill
The Jayrich baseball club of the City League will hold an important practice session Wednesday night at Forsyth Park starting at 6:30 o'clock. Manager Lou Scretto requests a full turnout of his players.

City Softball Result

With Jack Gruberg pitching four-hit ball Bnai Efrith defeated the Koenig A.C. softball in a regular City Softball League game at Loughran Park Monday night. The winners collected 10 hits on Van Buren.

DOWN ON THE FARM—Golf champion Byron Nelson relaxes between tournaments by riding a tractor on his 55-acre farm near Denton, Tex., which he operates jointly with his father. They grow sweet potatoes and peanuts.

Capitals Drub Centrals, 13-4 Behind McElrath's Four-Hitter

Victory Is Number Two in Row for Capitals; Morgans-Chez Emile Game Tonight

The New York Centrals finally saw action in the City Baseball League Monday night at municipal stadium but after six innings of battle against the up and coming Old Capital Motor team the trainmen didn't feel too happy about their opener. The Capitals walloped out their second straight loop win by blasting the Centrals 13 to 4 behind the four-hit pitching of Farrell McElrath.

Tonight's Game
Manager Bill Ball's Morgan Restaurant club will attempt to make it two in a row tonight in their game against Chez Emile. Howie Brooks is slated to hurl for the Tavern team while Bob Bush will go for the Chez Emile nine. Game time is 6:30 o'clock.

The Centrals, after a couple of weeks of idleness, started strong last night and hopped on McElrath for a single run in the first when Meyers reached first on Nussbaum's error, pilfered second, advanced to third on a passed ball, and scampered home when Zelle tossed out Ashdown at first.

A two run rally in the top half of the second gave the Capitals a 2-1 lead but the Centrals bounced back to tie up the ball game in their half of the second frame.

Two more chuckers were pushed across in the third by the Capitals and another one in the fourth making it a 5-2 ball game. The Centrals fell apart at the seams in the sixth inning and after the smoke had cleared eight big runs had crossed pay off dirt for the winners. Zelle opened the big frame with a resounding triple and scored on Joe Schrowang's one-base belt. The bases were filled when Sagendorf and Maxson prodded successive hits. Bob Nussbaum greeted Brown with a double which scored the Schrowang and Sagendorf. The latter continued when Ashdown bobbled Madden's grounder and on the error, Maxson raced in. Brown failed to help his own cause when he uncorked a wild pitch which allowed Nussbaum to score. McElrath cracked a single to left pushing in Madden. Crosby's grounder to Letus at third was taken by the basemen and thrown to second in an effort to force McElrath but the toss was wild and both McElrath and Crosby scampered all the way around to score. A total of eight runs on six hits and two errors were registered in that nightmarish sixth.

The Centrals, hoping to stage one of their own uprisings, managed to score two in the bottom half of the sixth but fell short by nine runs.

Jodi Gives Testimony

Nuernberg, June 4 (AP)—Col. Gen. Gustav Jodi testified today before the International Military Tribunal that captured orders showed British commandos were taught to truss up prisoners in such a way they strangled themselves. Claiming that although he had received evidence of the alleged instructions were used at Dieppe, neither he nor Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel issued an order for commandos to be summarily shot. The further put out that order himself, Jodi said, after the generals had stalled for ten days.

Primaries

(By The Associated Press)

Five more states marked primary ballots today, as Iowa tallied up the heavy majority which won Gov. Robert D. Blue the Republican renomination for governor.

Alabama, California, New Jersey, New Mexico and South Dakota took their turns at selecting candidates for the November elections, with C.I.O.-P.A.C. activity figuring in three of the states campaigns.

Advance indications pointed to no specially heavy total vote in today's elections, with the pattern in most contests generally following that of an off year. gubernatorial or congressional nominations, or both are at stake in today's balloting.

In Iowa, Blue turned back George Olmsted, wartime brigadier general, to replace him as the G.O.P. standard bearer for governor.

The Blue-Olmsted fight provided the only real interest in an otherwise unusually quiet campaign. Estimates placed the vote at about 20 per cent of maximum.

State by state, here is the setup today:

Alabama

It is Lt. Gov. Handy Ellis versus James E. Folsom, an insurance man, in a run-off contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, equivalent to election, C.I.O.-P.A.C. has backed Folsom, and Ellis made his intervention in the campaign his principal issue. Folsom countered with assertions that he did not seek such support and that it constitutes no issue.

California

The Democratic U. S. Senate contest between Rep. Ellis Patterson, Los Angeles, and Will Rogers, Jr., monopolizes the spotlight. Both candidates for the nomination have the approval of the state C.I.O.-P.A.C. There are few other outstanding contests.

New Jersey

The headliner is a ding-dong battle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, with former Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, opposing Alfred E. Driscoll, state alcoholic beverage control commissioner. Hoffman, just out of uniform, has made a point of telling the voters Driscoll spent the war in civilian life. In the outstanding congressional contest, the C.I.O.-P.A.C. is supporting Walter A. Schaefer, Nutley insurance man, who is seeking to unseat Rep. Fred A. Hartley, Kearny Republican who has had nine consecutive terms in the House.

New Mexico

Senator Chavez, out for the Democratic renomination to return to the seat he has occupied since 1935, went to the polls with C.I.O.-P.A.C. endorsement. But the same held true for his opponent, Gov. John J. Dempsey, C.I.O.-P.A.C. duplicated by giving its blessings to William J. Barker and Thomas J. Mabry—two of the six in the field for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Other primary interest included the contests for two places as representative at large.

South Dakota

Gov. M. Q. Sharpe makes his bid for a third Republican nomination to be the state's chief executive. He has two opponents. The Democratic gubernatorial nomination scramble likewise has three entries.

Dimout Is Lifted

New York, June 4 (AP)—The voluntary dimout suggested by Mayor William O'Dwyer more than two weeks ago as a fuel saving measure during the soft coal strike was lifted today.

Fletcher Says U.N. Petrillo Threatens
Will Settle in Westchester Area

Hartford, Conn., June 4 (AP)—

Chairman Sir Angus Fletcher of the United Nations Headquarters Commission told a news conference yesterday that the U.N. would locate its headquarters within the Fairfield county, Conn.-Westchester county, N. Y., area selected for it, but that it was too early to say specifically at what place within the site.

"We have to do," he said, "is to try to find a five, 14, 15 or 20 square mile site in the specified area. It will involve surveying, engineering studies and a general determination of exactly what the United Nations will require, and an attempt to fit these requirements into actual land considerations."

His remark was interpreted as meaning that the world capital could be situated either entirely in Connecticut or New York or in a locality cut through by the state boundary.

Sir Angus held the news conference during the course of a "courtesy call" he paid on Governor Raymond E. Baldwin with two members of his commission, Juan F. Yriart of Uruguay and Charles Le Couesier of France.

Questioned about the opposition of some Stamford and Greenwich residents to the U.N. establishing itself in the area, and about the legislature's recent adoption of a resolution welcoming the U.N. to Connecticut, Sir Angus replied:

"Thus far I can't say what effect these expressions of public sentiment will have on the commission's final decision."

He remarked, however, that the legislature's resolution "represents the people of the whole state."

He agreed heartily with a suggestion of Governor Baldwin that the headquarters commission hold a series of meetings with state and local committees to discuss site selection problems.

Petrillo Threatens
To Halt Programs

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 4 (AP)—

James C. Petrillo, fiery chief of the American Federation of Musicians, has threatened to halt all radio network broadcasts if the United States Supreme Court upholds the constitutionality of the Lea Bill limiting the musicians' right to strike.

The union leader in a vigorous attack on the bill before the annual AFM convention yesterday asserted that he had seen to it that agreements with broadcasters in New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles, where network programs originate, would expire on the same date—January 1, 1947.

"If the Supreme Court rules the Lea Bill constitutional," Petrillo declared, "the small stations won't get any music because these three locals will agree to play locally only."

Petrillo also threatened to halt the making of all recordings and transcriptions if Congress passes legislation prohibiting the AFM from collecting royalties on them. "We want justice and we're going to get it," Petrillo promised the cheering delegates in his opening speech. "You all have too much red blood in your veins to say, 'Petrillo, sit down and take it.'"

O'Dwyer Orders
Police to Clean Up
Their Department

New York, June 4 (AP)—The police department undertook today a sweeping investigation into charges that members of the department were accepting huge bribes from bookmakers in the "most cynical grafting spree in New York history."

The probe followed an order by Mayor William O'Dwyer that the department "clean its own house" after New York Daily News columnist Ed Sullivan charged in his column yesterday that police detectives were receiving payments from bookmakers ranging from $1,700-per-bookmaker-phone-per-month to $3,000-per-month.

Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander, declared in a statement that he had "directed the chief inspector and the commanding officer of the police commissioner's confidential squad to make a thorough and searching city-wide inquiry into the allegations of graft and corruption involving bookmakers and to uncover any other form of gambling."

In his column Sullivan charged that "token" arrests were being made "as a cover-up for the most cynical grafting spree on New York history." He said that rackets for detectives range from $1,700 a month in Manhattan for each phone a bookie uses in business to $3,000 a month in the Bronx.

Sullivan also charged that "detectives brag they 'can't be touched' and their superiors associate openly with mobsters."

O'Dwyer said Sullivan was not expected to be subpoenaed, adding: "I always respect the confidential sources of newspapermen. I will welcome information through the press and I will not embarrass a newspaperman on his sources of information. If he tells me something is wrong we will try to dig it up. I am interested in the facts only, the rest is up to us."

O'Dwyer said he had no information to confirm or deny Sullivan's charges.

Yugoslav Orders
Are for Marshaling
Country's Forces

London, June 4 (AP)—The London Daily Mail's Rome correspondent said today he had learned from "reliable sources" in the Italian capital that Belgrade newspapers had published an announcement of general mobilization in Yugoslavia. The dispatch, published under a seven-column headline on the Mail's front page, said it was "not clear" what actually was happening in Yugoslavia, but added:

"It will be recalled that June 1 was the date set by Yugoslavia as the deadline for the withdrawal of the U. S. Army Transport Command ground staff from the Belgrade airport."

"These new moves by (Premier Marshal) Tito, who early last week flew to Moscow for talks with Prime Minister Stalin, follow swiftly upon parallel notes of protest by Britain and America to Yugoslavia."

"The notes protested against the obstructive tactics of Yugoslav agents in the Anglo-American zone of Venezia Giulia, the province of which Trieste is the capital."

At the same time, the dispatch said "it is reported that Zone A in Venezia Giulia, which is occupied by Allied, as distinct from Yugoslav troops, has been declared in a state of emergency."

The newspaper Giorani Della Serra was quoted as saying that the Allies had undertaken a big arms roundup in anticipation of a possible coup by Tito.

The dispatch said Allied military sources gave no confirmation of the reported Yugoslav mobilization, but said "non-military Allied officials consider this might be a very likely step."

The cost of drilling an oil well may range from $8,000 to $250,000.

Court of Claims Begins Lawsuit Trial on Killing

New York, June 4 (AP)—The State Court of Claims began trial yesterday of Mrs. Sadie Cohen's suit for $50,000 damages in the death of her husband who, she alleges, was fatally injured by an inmate during a visit to Kings Park State Hospital March 22, 1945.

Mrs. Cohen whose home is at 685 Hempstead highway, Elmont, is administratrix of the estate of the late Bernard Cohen, 65.

Harry H. Lipsig, her attorney, told the court Cohen was visiting his son, a patient at the institution, when an inmate, a 49-year-old ex-pugilist, knocked him to the floor and kicked him about the head.

Cohen died later the same day. The institute was negligent in failing to supervise the ward properly, Lipsig argued, but Assistant Attorney General Howard F. Danahy, representing the hospital, denied there was negligence of any kind.

TRAGEDY ALONG THE HIGHWAY

A pony ride along a Long Island highway near Hempstead had this tragic outcome when nine-year-old Edith Nagel and her mount were struck by a motorcar. The little girl, lying at left foreground, suffered a broken leg and skull fracture; the animal was so badly hurt it had to be destroyed.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

We should not miss the significance of the French general election and Italy's plebiscite to determine whether that country shall have a monarchy or a republic.

These are the ordinary events, for basically they represent major battles in the drive by Communism to control Western Europe, as it already does the eastern part of the continent.

In France the Red forces have been unseated as the strongest party by a move of the country's voters towards the right. The Italian returns are still too incomplete at this writing to permit of an accurate estimate of the way the tide runs.

Of these two, the French elections are more important in determining the political future of Europe—perhaps of the whole world, for that matter. A totalitarian Communist government in Paris would go far towards giving Russia domination of Europe clear through the English Channel. The present swing towards the right—though not great—moves France further from dictatorship and closer to the western democracy of America and England. While Washington officials were silent, government officials expressed much gratification at the turn of events.

What has happened in France is this: The last government was a coalition comprising Communists, the popular Republican movement (which is middle-of-the-road politically) and Socialists, whose respective representations in the Assembly were 159, 150 and 146. There are, of course, other smaller parties.

Drew Up Constitution

The Assembly drew up a new constitution, the framing being dominated by the Communists and Socialists. This was submitted to a national referendum on May 5 and was rejected, necessitating the election of a new constituent assembly, which has now taken place.

The rejection of this constitution was a rebuff to the tendency towards totalitarianism. The present election reaffirms that viewpoint.

The popular Republican movement (MRP) now has the largest number of seats in the Assembly, with the Communists next and the Socialists trailing. No party has a plurality, and the new government therefore will have to be another coalition, but how that will be framed is anybody's guess. While this represents a moderate turn away from Communism, it shouldn't be interpreted as a trend toward conservatism. France is Socialist but the Frenchman loves his individual freedom too much to hand it over to a dictatorship. It should be remembered too that France is largely agricultural and that her tillers of the soil own their farms. The French farmer has no disposition to pool his tidy acres in collectivism.

There is considerable speculation whether the turn of events in this election will bring General De Gaulle back into the political arena. The MRP is generally held to represent his political ideas and backed him before he resigned from the presidency and went into retirement. France needs powerful leadership at this juncture, and many feel that De Gaulle is the one to give it. However, the youthful leader of the MRP, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, has been displaying marks of strong generalship and there is talk that he may be put forward by his party for the presidency.

The newly elected assembly now must frame another constitution which in due course will be submitted to the country for approval. The interim presidency will be an uncomfortable job, since no long term policies can be inaugurated until the constitution is adopted, and if the country's affairs don't prosper, the chief of state is likely to get the blame.

Kilian Won't Testify In Brutality Trial

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 4 (AP)—Col. James A. Kilian of Highland Park, Ill., today won his fight to avoid testifying in the trial of a soldier accused of brutality to prisoners in the U. S. Army guardhouse at Lichfield, England, which Kilian once commanded.

Kilian, himself awaiting trial on charges of authorizing acts of cruelty, insisted it would embarrass his own defense to answer questions about policies or conditions at Lichfield.

The military court upheld his refusal to answer several successive questions and defense attorneys finally excused him from the witness stand.

Kilian was called to testify in behalf of P.F.C. William B. Norris of Mulga, Ala., a former guard at Lichfield. Norris is charged with beating several prisoners.

"The defense admits that these acts took place," said Norris' attorney, Capt. John Barr of Urbana, Ill. "But we are trying to show that throughout the 10th Reinforcement Depot at Lichfield everybody was under a strain, working at top speed under pressure to get men out and to the front. We are trying to show that the defendant used common sense in obeying orders given him."

One witness testified yesterday that "beating was a usual procedure with reporters" at Lichfield, where many soldiers were confined after going absent without leave from units headed for front line service.

Hunt Circus Is Enjoyed by Many At Walker's Lot

Hunt Brothers' Circus pleased the matinee and evening audiences at Walker's show grounds across the Washington avenue viaduct, Monday, and today's two shows were expected to draw large crowds. Tonight's performance starts at 8 o'clock.

Charles Hunt, dean of circus owners, on the road for his 54th season, is busy at the lot renewing old acquaintances. He started from here with his own show in 1892 at the age of 19. He has seen good times and bad ones. At present he is riding the crest of the wave with one of the best shows outside of the major circus circle. His is the largest motorized attraction traveling this season.

Hunt Brothers, managed by his three sons, Charles, Jr., Harry and Eddie, boasts real stellar big top talent, such as Marvin and Hazel Case, tightwire artists; the Zavattas, a troupe of bareback riders from Europe; the Valencias, Brazil's ambassadors of equilibrium, presenting a ballet on unsupported ladders; Dave Nimmo and his champion cowboys and cowgirls doing trick riding and roping; a herd of elephants, trained dogs, and ponies; and a score of funny clowns with their trained pets.

Mrs. Hunt, formerly Carrie Tronson of Kingston, still enjoys traveling with the show, despite her 73 years. Speaking of her husband, she said, "Charles is as enthusiastic as ever, and even though the boys have relieved him of many details, he still plays a big hand in guiding the activities of the show." Mr. Hunt is a native of Kingston, having been born here in 1873. His daughter, Charlotte, Mrs. Levine by marriage, featured in the circus for years, is still doing her act on one of the high perches at the top of the main tent.
